

Physician Health Seminar Company Has New Name, Website, & Visionary Leadership Coaching

Visionary Health Solutions, formerly Physician and Health Professional Seminars, is re-named to reflect the Company's new cutting-edge, Visionary Leadership Coaching services available to physicians, health professionals and other business personnel, in addition to its physicians health and wellness seminars. Launch of new, interactive website fosters communication with customers and provides the latest in product offerings.

Kings Park, NY, (PRWeb), January 26, 2010: Effective immediately, Physician and Health Professional Seminars will now be known as Visionary Health Solutions. The re-branding lends itself to its latest product offering, Visionary Leadership Coaching, available in addition to physicians health seminars, and wellness seminars for other health and business professionals. The company has also launched a new website, www.VisionaryHealthSolutions.com, to improve communications and services for its growing customer base of physicians, healthcare personnel, and other business professionals.

Visionary Health Solutions will now provide individual and group Visionary Leadership Coaching sessions for physicians and health professionals and students, administrative and leadership personnel, and other organizational staff, as well as business personnel in non-medical companies, for issues including physician health and wellness, anger management, communication skills, relationship problems, stress management, anxiety and burnout, poor performance, compulsive behaviors, physical problems, and more. Sessions are done in person and by phone. A sample anger management techniques video provides a simple demonstration.

Susan Eisner, President of Visionary Health Solutions explains, "Our innovative coaching techniques are cutting-edge and vary from traditional methods. They include powerful stress management techniques combined into a relaxing, guided introspective process in which the root causes of current problematic behaviors, attitudes and beliefs are uncovered and addressed, promoting more rapid and lasting improvement. These techniques also work well to improve physical ailments and symptoms."

The power of this coaching is illustrated in four clients who received one session each, for whom follow-up was done for a month. One physician had almost complete relief of back pain he'd had for a year. Another doctor lost strong stage-anxiety and easily performed in a professional video. A medical secretary experienced significantly less physical pain, reduced anxiety, and greatly improved communication in an important personal relationship. And an insurance representative specified business goals in four major areas that were carried out in a clear, focused manner with little distraction.

Visionary Health Solutions also offers a variety of interactive healthcare seminars on physician health, and wellness seminars for other health personnel and business professionals that target the personal needs of participants. These include stress management, disruptive behavior, addiction and impaired professionals, meditation and relaxation techniques, fatigue, interpersonal communication skills, and more.

Through coaching and participation in the Company's seminars, organizations can benefit by achieving greater productivity, fewer medical errors, improved patient outcomes, higher morale, less sick time and absenteeism, and saving money on health care, staff turnover and hiring and training new employees.

Simultaneously, Visionary Health Solutions will also be launching a new website. "We are very excited about expanding our presence on the web and improving our level of communication to new and existing customers. Visitors to the site can learn about the latest product offerings, review educational requirements for health professionals and organizations mandated by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) and The Joint Commission, register for electronic newsletters, link to our blog, and obtain valuable resources such as a free guided meditation to overcome problematic behaviors such as smoking, overeating, procrastination, and anger outbursts," said Susan Eisner.

About Visionary Health Solutions

Visionary Health Solutions, formerly known as Physician and Health Professional Seminars, was founded by Susan Eisner in 2006. For 26 years, Susan designed and conducted physicians health and wellness seminars for physicians, medical students, health professionals, and other personnel within the New York medical community, as well as for the general public. Through these seminars and from her more recent endeavor of Visionary Leadership Coaching sessions, she has achieved great satisfaction in helping individuals optimize their performance by improving their individual health.
